Day 8. Unit 5: Email App

Objectives:

- Understand Angular Routing
- Able to configure routing in Angular
- Able to use named router-outlet

Requirements:

You have to create an email app that look like figure below:

Assumptions:

- You are given a list of messages inside messages.json file
- Check the demo here: <https://ui-router.github.io/sample-app-angularjs/#/mymessages/inbox>

Functionalities:

Header:

The Header contains 2 parts:

On left side its 3 Tab called Messages, Contacts, Preferences. Default active tab is Messages.

For Contacts and Preferences functionalities, we don't need it for this exercise. So you just have to put the text `This page is under construction`

On the right side, we have a drop down to select user, a Home icon, and New Message

For the scope of this exercise we only have 3 users (check the value of field to from messages.json) When user switch user myself@angular.dev, we will only show message that are sent to myself@angular.dev

New Message and Home are just for show, you don't need to implement the functionalities.
